

NEW RANGE OF PRODUCTS IN STAINLESS STEEL

The know-how, the experience and the continuous effort in R&D&I has permitted our brand to launch constantly the most innovative wellness solutions to the market. The company wants to answer this way its clients' needs through products that combine design and quality.

In this way, Freixanet presents its leisure pools, whirlpools and cold water basins in stainless steel, which is a really attractive material and already used by the firm in leisure elements for pools. The product gains image, and on its side it offers a cosy and comfortable environment, adapted in function of each project.

These products in stainless steel counts on several advantages, either in the implementation or in the later use. The assembly process is easy and it assures total reliability. The basin is featured by a charge over structure considerably lower and maximum security because watertightness tests are made at workshop to ensure the impeccability of the basin shape. The final result is optimal from aesthetics, quality and durability points of view.

With the aim of offering a comfortable and attractive solution, Freixanet Saunasport recommends the new range of stainless steel products not only taking into account quality, but also their incomparable image.
